Capital comparisons establish physical scale; whole flat-footed lowercase forms establish each text-row baseline.

Colon and semicolon retain two components. The apostrophe retains one. No filled holes or assembled parts.

Four-times Lanczos sampling, normalization radius 48, blur 1.2 and tolerance 0.8; modern 35-unit sidebearings.

Processed NYPL apostrophes retain stepped native edges. Cleaner matching impressions remain a quality task.

The source evidence supports matching optical forms; it does not identify physical punches or matrices.
